STOCK NOTES.

American cattle are weak in Liver-pool, at 12 cents for best, estimated dressed weight.

Since the bounty law went into force Graham county has paid $2,000 for the scalps of animals.

Cattle in most sections of Southern Arizona are fast laying on fat, and the shipment of beef steers promises to be very large this fall.—Southwestern Stockman.

More improvement in the farm and draft horses in this country has been made in the past five years than was made in the ten preceding years. Let the good work go on.

The following figures show the assessed number of head of live stock for the year 1886, in Yavapai County: Cattle and calves, 116,236; horses, 10,937; mules, 416; sheep, 57,528; goats, 1,216; hogs, 1,107.

Two horse thieves, Antonio Vega and Sanome Contreras, were arrested at Nogales, Arizona, last week and taken to Tucson for trial. Vega is also wanted for murder, having killed a negro, Joe Davis, in Arivaca six years ago.

The annual milk product of the United States equals in value half of the national debt. This statement conveys an idea of the immensity of the dairy interest of the country; of what other product, either animal or agricultural, can such a statement be made.

Mr. T. T. Hunter was over near the Gila river a few days ago, and informs us that a number of cattle have died around a Safford from the same disease which resulted so disastrously to work cattle near Fort Thomas. The deaths among the cattle so far, however, at Safford have not been numerous.—Southwestern Stockman.

Many new stockmen are quietly bringing in their herds to Northern Arizona and Southern Utah and locating near the line. Parties recently from that vicinity inform us that the country is new and well adapted for range purposes, water and grass being in such quantities as to ensure no loss to stock from a lack of either.—Hoof and Horn.

Jake Elswick owns the boss cow. Ten years ago he bought her as a calf, and to-day he has 21 head of direct descendants of that blue old cow; besides, he has at various times killed and sold altogether seven head of the same family. He now has six milch cows, some steers, some yearlings, and a whole herd of calves. The old cow has been a perfect mine of wealth to him.—Caldwell (Kan) Journal.

James E. Porter, came in last Saturday, from his ranch, 10 miles south of Show Low. He says that grass is simply splendid along the foothills of the White Mountains, never saw it better, that sheep are fat, and cattle are taking on flesh rapidly. Mr. Porter says that if frost will hold off till the last of September, there will be better winter feed than we have had for several years past.—St. Johns Herald.

Cloud-bursts and thunder storms seem to be the order of the day in Wyoming. During one of these storms last week a man employed at Hutton's ranch, near Larimer City, was rendered unconscious for two hours by lightning. Near Fort Sanders six horses were struck and the boy in charge knocked senseless for a time. At Virginia Dale, in Colorado, ranchmen sustained considerable damage as a result of a cloud-burst.—Cheyenne Live Stock Journal.

At a recent sale of Shorthorns at Dr. Cundiff's farm in Missouri, the prices were considerably above the average. Nineteen females brought $2,040, an average of $138.94 each, and two bulls brought $260, an average of $130; total $2,900, making a general average of a little over $138 each. Mr. H. H. Stevens, of Brunston, Mo., bought Ada Caro, a four-year-old Rose of Sharon cow, for $300 and W. E. Hall, of Carthage, Mo., purchased Rose of Sharon 20th, aged nine months for $305; Rose of Sharon 21st was captured by J. D. Fleming of Kansas City, Mo., for $300.

A most important legal decision lately rendered will, perhaps, work a revolution in the ranges. Judge Henderson, of the third judicial district of New Mexico, granted an injunction to two prominent ranchmen in Dona Anna County, restraining a neighboring ranchman from the use of the water from their wells in watering his herd. We may now expect the opening up of new sources of water supply so badly needed in many ranges, a consequent saving of stock and utilization of pastures that, for want of water, have hitherto gone to waste. Ranchmen who dig wells on the range can expect protection and some reward for their trouble, as a result of the above decision.—Chicago Wool Grower.

While Polk Armstrong, of Willow Springs, was out horse hunting on his range last week, he suddenly came upon four Mexicans in camp who threw their guns down on him and told him to "git," and he got. Mr. Armstrong sent word to Fairview, and Lieut. Kendall with a squad of soldiers, accompanied by some citizens, went in pursuit of the greasers, who had probably got wind of the movement, pulled out, and owing to heavy rains which obliterated their trail, they made good their escape. It is said that these fellows are horse thieves, and have been operating in this section for a long time, and that they take only the best and dispose of their plunder in the vicinity of St. Johns, Arizona. They had six horses with them this trip.—Black Range.

Colorado at the present time is enjoying an unenviable notoriety for shooting scrapes among cowboys. The latest is reported from Rocky Ford, wherein one John Sagan, foreman for A. & L. Enyart, met H. Enyart, an employe of the same firm, and there having been trouble brewing for some time between the parties, they passed from words to blows. Sagan struck the other over the head with a six-shooter, and then commenced shooting. Enyart returned the fire and shot Sagan through the thigh bone five inches above the knee shattering the bone. The latter fell, but he took a parting shot as he lay on the ground, and shot Enyart in the side, the ball glancing and lodging in the muscles of the back. Both parties are likely to die.—Stock Grower.

Strange Cattle Diseases.

Mr. D. Johnson, whose ranch is a few miles southeast of Wilcox, informs us that he has lost several calves lately from some unknown disease. The calves seem to choke up when drinking, the water is forced back through the nose, and then they commence to stagger and soon fall over and die. We have heard of no other cattlemen losing calves from this malady.

Mr. J. J. Taylor, of this place received information this week that thirty-five head of his work oxen, which are used in freighting between here and Globe, had died at a point on the Gila river seven miles the other side of Fort Thomas. Mr. Taylor sent a man to investigate the matter, and he reports that the oxen all died within three or four days of each other, and that several Mexican freighters have lost about all their oxen at the same place. Over a hundred dead cattle can be counted without moving one's position. They die from some undetermined malady, but the man whom Mr. Taylor sent to inquire into the matter thinks that it is caused from eating old, dry feed. The first symptoms of the disease are a trembling of the entire body, and the animals die soon after being attacked. A number of range cattle have also died in the same vicinity from this disease, but no serious losses among the latter are apprehended, as the deaths have occurred only in a very small scope of country.—Wilcox Stockman.

Oleomargarine Law.

It is said that the oleomargarine law will be as strictly enforced as the liquor and tobacco law. The license for a manufacturer of the bogus butter is $600, for wholesaling $480, and for retailing $48. Revenue stamps to the extent of two cents per pound are on each package. Less than ten pounds is the limit for retailing dealers. The oleomargarine must be packed in firkins and tubs of not less than ten pounds at the factory. An import duty of fifteen cents per pound is placed on the article. The law goes into effect November 2nd of this year.

Willis A. Parks, a blind violinist, of Yreka, Cal., who lost his eyesight from an attack of measles when a boy, recently fell down the shaft of the Mary Blaine mine, and received a deep cut extending across the forehead. When taken out he found that his eyesight had been restored by the wound and shock, and he could distinguish objects around him. He can see now as well as ever.

In Regard to Sheep Husbandry.

The Pacific Rural Press has the following statements and comments which may be of interest to flockmasters at the present time:

The growth and expansion of sheep husbandry, as set forth in the increased production of wool, with the latter's various ups and downs in values, are of peculiar interest to farmers and manufacturers alike. Take the four leading wool producing countries and the increased percentage of growth has been about the same. This can better be seen by the following comparison of the production in pounds in 1860, compared with that of 1883:

	1860.	1883.
Australia,	60,251,000	354,750,000
Cape,	36,250,000	56,250,000
River Plate,	40,500,000	199,500,000
United States,	73,000,000	300,000,000
Total	209,000,000	910,500,000

While the production has increased on an average of 400 per cent, it is quite safe to say the population of the nations using woolen goods has increased very little; where one nation gained largely in population, as in the case of the United States, it was at the expense of other nations. The rapid increase in wool production could possibly have been done without creating low prices for wools throughout the world, particularly with all industries depressed and low prices ruling for both raw material and manufactured articles of commerce and trade.

While the production in this country shows an increase of about 400 per cent, the consumption also shows a remarkable increase. In 1860 we consumed 230,500,000 pounds, of which 75,000,000 pounds was imported. In 1883 we consumed 400,388,215 pounds and last year 428,836,708 pounds of which nearly 100,000,000 which were imported. But then the production of wools has been decreasing the past half decade, while the consumption has been increasing. No doubt the principal cause for a lessening production is found in the great expansion of the United States railroad system making land too valuable for pasture, thus forcing owners of large flocks of sheep to either go further back or else part with a large portion of their holdings. This is illustrated in our state and will be further emphasized as railroad feeders are constructed to tap the many fertile sections now removed from demand markets for farm products. It is quite safe to say, judging from the tenor of passing events in sheep husbandry, that the days of large flocks in this state have passed and that small ones enough only to prove profitable on a farm will be the rule before many years pass by.

ATTENTION!

TO THE PUBLIC.

Appreciating the patronage which a general public has bestowed upon us since we have opened our mercantile establishment at this place, we desire to call their attention to the following facts:

- 1st. We are constantly receiving fresh invoices of all classes of goods, direct from the east.
- 2nd. Buying our goods in person we have to pay no middle man's expenses.
- 3rd. And for that reason we can sell you any and a better class of goods at lower figures than any house on the line of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad. We defy competition. We will not be undersold. Be sure and call and examine goods and prices before purchasing elsewhere.
